

WITNESS STATEMENT DENNY MCMULLIN

On January 21, 1965, Martin Luther King Jr spoke to a standing room only audience of 9,000 people, on the campus of Penn State University. Fortunately, his speech was televised. I could not attend in-person. Watching his presentation was truly remarkable. He was speaking directly to me and he was changing my life and my course of behavior as he spoke. This was a very profound inspirational and spiritual experience for me. His presence and the speech he delivered has continued to shape my desire to seek racial justice and to be active in StVs "We Have A Dream" team!
